As the warmer weather approaches, I'd like to remind residents of a few Spring things.

- Pick up any garbage that has been buried in the snow around your property.
- Pick up any animal feces that you didn't get to during the winter, while it's still a bit frozen.
- Try to clear the ice away from any drains to prevent yours or your neighbor's property from flooding.
- Have the ice cleared off the sidewalks, with the melt it gets even more slick.

Help put Saskatoon And Area on the World Nature Scene! It's as easy as 1-2-3. Simply download the iNaturalist app, take a photograph of nature in your local area – whether that's a tree, plant or insect or animal – and upload. You don't even have to know anything about the species you are observing. Teams of experts will be reviewing and updating the information that's submitted, so you can log back in later and learn more about what you've spotted. It's a fun, friendly race against the clock to put nature on the map to support vital conservation research.
